Sample Research Notes

This is a fictional study for testing PDF extraction.
The team measured ocean temperature at three coastal stations.
Measurements were collected daily for thirty days.

Results and Limitations

The average temperature in the sample was 18 degrees Celsius.
The study did not measure salinity or deep-ocean conditions.
These notes are demonstration data, not scientific findings.